

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Lawyers' Reports Annotated, New Series. Book 22. Burdette A. Rich, and Henry P. Farnham, Editors. 1910. Rochester, New York. The Lawyers' Co-Operative Publishing Company. Price $4.00.

Each successive volume of this work adds to the working tools of the busy lawyer and places within easy reach the latest up to date authorities so well annotated that there is no trouble in finding any question to which the cases refer, with references to all the late authorities. The case note on the "Constitutionality of Primary Election Laws" affixed to People of Illinois v. Strassheim, page 1136, is a timely article of particular interest to the Virginia people at this time and should be studied by our Legislators before they take any action on the numerous bills which will probably be offered at their present session. There is also a very excellent note to Hoylman v. K. & M. Railroad Co., page 741, in regard to the negligence of a passenger in getting on or off a moving train; and the note to Trimble v. King, page 880, as to the "Loss of Private Way by Nonuser, or Improvements Inconsistent with Its Use," is of distinct value and novelty.

The Laws of England, being a complete statement of the whole law of England. By the Right Honorable the Earl of Halsbury, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, 1885-86, 1886-92, and 1895-1905, and other lawyers. Volume X, Crown Practise, Dependencies and Colonies, London, Butterworth & Co., 11 & 12 Bell Yard, Temple Bar, Law Publishers. Agents for the United States: Lawyers' Co-Operative Publishing Co., Rochester, N. Y. 1910. Cromarty Law Book Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Price $7.50.

The present volume of this work embraces Crown Practise to Dependencies and Colonies. Included in the volume are articles upon Customs and Usages, Damages, Deeds and Other Instruments, which are of great value to the American lawyer. The more volumes of this monumental work that are issued the more it becomes apparent that in matter and manner of presentation, in conciseness and clearness of statement, it is unsurpassed by any work of its character yet upon the market and we do not think the library of any American lawyer would be complete without it.

We would like very much to know, however, if Volume V has been lost in the shuffle. It was promised some time ago and we suppose is en route.